

BUS 315 : Organizational Behavior

An introduction to the management of individuals and small groups in the work place. This course studies the basic theory of behavior within organizations, including topics such as the dynamics of small groups, informal structures within an organization, and the significance of the social environment.

Credits 3

Prerequisites

BUS 210