

CHM 425 : Advanced Biochemistry

In-depth study of selected biochemical reactions and pathways of major biological and physiological significance. Topics include synthesis and breakdown of important biomolecules, cell signaling pathways, and second messengers. Course consists of both lecture and laboratory components.

Credits 4

Prerequisites

CHM 356 or BIO 356. (Same as BIO 425)